Students are encouraged to enroll in courses on Latin America/the Caribbean or to participate in the programs of Latin American Studies—Related Concentration, Undergraduate or Graduate Certificate. Many of the undergraduate courses on this list may be used to satisfy the School of Arts and Sciences foreign culture, non-Western culture requirement or other general education requirements. Need advice concerning registration or want information about the certificates or related concentration? Please contact Luis Van Fossen Bravo (email bravo@pitt.edu or phone 412-648-7396).

Students also are welcome to attend CLAS events—lectures, films, workshops, concerts, conferences and the annual Latin American and Caribbean Festival. See the monthly schedule of activities on the CLAS website: <http://www.ucis.pitt.edu/clas>

Important Information for Students and Advisors

Program Registration: To be officially enrolled in the CLAS certificate program, students must complete an application for admission to CLAS. Admissions are done on a rolling basis. The only pre-requisite is interest in Latin American related topics. There are no deadlines, nor is there an application fee. However, the sooner a student enrolls, the sooner they may be eligible for awards, grants, and fellowships from CLAS.

Acceptable Certificate Courses: Courses in this list with titles typed in ALL CAPS are accepted to fulfill Latin American Studies area course requirements. Courses with titles typed in upper and lower case are international courses in which at least 25% of the content is Latin American. To have international courses count towards the certificate, focus your work on Latin America. (If the professor requires a paper or papers, bibliography, readings, etc., you must do all the work on a Latin American topic. You will be asked to present your work for the course to the CLAS academic advisor.)

Other Courses: Students may, with the permission of the CLAS advisor, register for a course with international content, a directed study, independent study or readings course taught by a CLAS faculty member. These courses will count towards the certificate/related concentration only if the student focuses specifically on a Latin American topic for the course.

University of Pittsburgh Course Numbers

Courses numbered from:

- 0001 to 0999 are lower level undergraduate courses; they are not acceptable for graduate credit.
- 1000 to 1999 are upper level undergraduate courses; they are acceptable for both undergraduate and graduate certificates.
- 2000 to 2999 are master's level courses and those in the 3000s are doctoral level courses.

All Latin American courses for the certificate or related concentration will be counted as “inside” or “outside” the student’s major. The primary academic department of the faculty member teaching the course determines how the course will be counted. Examples: A course taught by Prof. Barry Ames that is cross-listed in Political Science and GSPIA will be counted as a course in Political Science (the primary academic department of Prof. Ames) no matter if the student registers for the course under GSPIA or PS. A course taught by Prof.

*Summer Course List 2017—Center for Latin American Studies
CLAS*

John Beverley that is cross-listed in Spanish, English Literature, and Cultural Studies will be counted as a course in Hispanic Languages and Literatures (the primary academic department of Prof. Beverley).

Faculty: Please contact Luis Van Fossen Bravo (email bravo@pitt.edu or phone 412-648-7396 if your course contains 25% Latin American content and is missing from this list or if the information given about your course is incorrect. Revisions to this list are made as soon as corrections are received.

This is a policy-relevant history course that examines the international relations of the 20th century, as well as the lasting legacy of the cold war today. After discussing the causes, conduct, and consequences of World War II, students study the rise of the Soviet Union and iron curtain, postwar trusteeships, and the process of decolonization by which large swaths of Africa and Asia obtained their independence. Class lectures cover just war theory, the geopolitics of war, the rise of NATO, and the major cold war conflicts in Cuba, Afghanistan, Iran, and Vietnam. Using historical case studies, students learn important practical skills useful for a career in diplomacy, international negotiation, or statecraft, as seen through the eyes of master practitioners.

NOTE: Students must focus their papers on Latin America to have this course count towards the certificate in Latin American Studies.

Prerequisite(s): none

Undergraduate and graduate students are welcome.

Students are encouraged to go to GSPIA, 3601 WWPH to check updates for GSPIA courses.

-------	--	-------------------	--------------------	-----------------------------

This course explores histories, cultures, and socio-political issues of relevance to women of African descent across the geographical spectrum of the Pan-African world: Africa, the Caribbean and Latin America, and North America. The course begins by exploring gender and sex, and then delves into ideas of feminism, black feminism, and womanism as relevant ideologies for women of African descent. Finally, the course uses articles and three major texts---a novel (Zimbabwe) and two ethnographies (United States and Brazil), to examine issues of colonialism, identity politics, colorism, cultural representation, sex work, and women in hip hop.

Prerequisite(s): none

Check with the department on how often this course is offered.

19017	Mo We 04:00 PM-07:15 PM 02319 CL	No recitation.	Enroll Limit 35	Lee, Dong Ju
-------	--	-------------------	-----------------------	-----------------

This course aims to increase students' knowledge of the history of the modern state system and, in particular, political developments during the past few decades. It introduces students to basic concepts and analytic frameworks that political scientists employ to understand world politics, enhancing students' knowledge of international institutions that play important roles in world politics and exploring current issues in world affairs relating to human welfare and security. Depending on the interests, area of expertise, and inclinations of the particular instructor, some of these may be emphasized more heavily than others.

Prerequisite(s): none

This course is offered every term.

1583 Topics in International Relations: Immigration in the 21st Century

19826	Mo We Fr 10:00AM-12:15 PM 206 CL	No recitation.	Enroll Limit 35	Neureiter, Michael

Around the world, there are an estimated 250 million migrants, making up about 3% of the global population. The rising rates of international migration have been accompanied by growing public and media interest, and have led to intense public and political debates in which emotions and ideology too often trump a careful reading of data. With no sign that international migration is slowing down, the causes and consequences of immigration will remain a critical topic for the 21st century. This course addresses some of the central questions in current debates about immigration, including: Why do people move across international borders, and where do they go? What are the consequences of migration for the sending and the receiving countries? And how do local communities, national governments, and international institutions respond to migration (including “illegal” migration)? This course aims to provide students with the theoretical and empirical knowledge needed to grapple with these questions intelligently.

SOC-SOCIOLOGY

Undergraduate Course Offerings

0317	Globalization
16111	Mo We 1:00 PM-04:15 PM 2200 WWPB	No recitation.	Enroll Limit 49	Schroering, Caitlin Hays

The aim is to analyze the dynamics of civilization in today's interconnected world. How is people's social and cultural life shaped by their position in the world, by local traditions and distant forces? How have the independently coexisting civilizations of earlier centuries become incorporated into a global civilization in which colonial empires and the communist regime have given way to wider democracy and a capitalist regime with global dynamics? How is Western culture (beliefs, values and symbols) disseminated and embraced, modified or resisted in non-Western societies?

Prerequisite(s): none

This course is offered at least once a year.

Undergraduate Course Offerings

0700	World History
19867	Tu Th 02:00 PM-05:15 PM 206 CL	No recitation.	Enroll Limit 35	Sherry, Bennett G

This course is an introductory survey of world history, by which is meant an overview of major processes and interactions in the development of human society since the development of agriculture some 10,000 years ago. It is a selective overview, emphasizing large-scale patterns and connections in political, social, cultural, technological, and environmental history, yet it also provides balance among regions of the world. It encourages students to apply historical techniques to issues of their own interest.

Prerequisite(s): none

This course is offered at least once a year.
