Center for Russian and East European Studies

Educational Resource Collection

The Center for Russian and East European Studies offers a variety of educational resources to promote international awareness for various age groups. Lending materials are available for two-week, renewable loans by mail or in person. The only cost to the borrower is return postage. However, any damage will be assessed at the expense of the borrower. To borrow any resource, please contact Zsuzsánna Magdó, REES Assistant Director, at zsuzsannamagdo@pitt.edu or 412-648-7407.

Please review all materials. In some cases we have noted the intended age group for the publications; in others we encourage teacher discretion.

Teachers' Guides and Resources

- TG-1 Teachers' Guide to the Successor States – This detailed book contains a list of slide programs, film strips, audio cassettes, books, and teaching aids available from Indiana University's Russian and East European Institute, Audio Visual Center, and Polish Studies Center. Revised in 1993. Grades 8-12.
- TG-2 Global Studies Series: Europe and Eurasia – This series provides an introduction to the basic ideas of cultural, historical, political, and economic characteristics of Eastern Europe. The textbook highlights current events that dramatically shaped the climate of these countries throughout the last ten years. It easily relates the living history of this region to any classroom. Globe Fearon, 1997. Grades 6-9. Teacher's book is included.
- TG-3 Survey of World Cultures – Anne Chatterton Klimas. This workbook provides an overview of the European continent with a focus on Poland and Romania, as well as France, Norway, Greece, Italy, and the United Kingdom. The book provides a chapter for each country and highlights its unique culture. Maps showing the national resources and geography are also included. AGS, 1993. Grades 6-9. Teacher's book is included.
- TG-4 Teaching Russian Studies – This teacher's guide with classroom materials focuses on the geography, history, language, culture, and art of Russia. It also contains a group of slides and activities designed to reveal characteristics about the fascinating Russian people. There are maps of resources, populations, geographical features, and time zones. A list of Russian history over the last 1,000 years is included. Primary resources include letters, artwork, folktales, and recipes. Center for Teaching International Relations at the University of Denver, 1996. Grades 8-12.
- TG-5 Charting Russia's Future in the Post-Soviet Era – The fall of Communism left many observers wondering how Russia arrived at that point and what direction the country would now explore. This classroom book lets students explore these questions with maps and charts. Other discussion topics include Russian prospects for the future (economic and social reform.) This book uniquely describes events during the first war in Chechnya as well as successful Russian public policies. This book supplies students with a substantial background on Russia and also provides instructors with a solid basis for classroom discussion. Choices for the 21st Century Education Project. Brown University, 1996 and 1998 editions. Grades 9-12.

- TG-6 The Soviet Successor States and East Europe – A comprehensive teaching guide with information about the countries that emerged from the Soviet Union after its collapse. This book goes into great detail in discussing the Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS). Indiana University's Russian and East European Institute, 1993. Grades 6-9.
- TG-7 Russia and the Former Soviet Republics – Ed Bandt. A textbook detailing the fall of communism and the countries that emerged as a result. It includes a description of the geography, climate, history, ethnic groups, art, science, government, and daily life in East Europe. A Teacher's Guide with readings, activities, and questions is also included. American Guidance Service, 1993. Grades 9-12.
- TG-8 A Sampler of Ethnic Crafts – This book, a great hands-on aid, allows a classroom to explode into ethnic rooms representing a variety of cultures. It includes facts about the holidays and the traditions of the various countries' celebrations. Pennsylvanian Ethnic Heritage Studies, 1990. Grades K-6.
- TG-9 Russia and the United States – This workbook provides an overview of Russian history from the days of Rurik to Boris Yeltsin. Additionally, it contains a discussion about Soviet and U.S. policy toward one other. Readings are followed by comprehension questions and writing assignments. An answer key is included. Social Studies School Services, 1994. Grades 5-8.
- TG-10 Russia and Its Neighbors – Uneasy Relationships: Understanding Global Issues – This booklet contains a variety of discussion questions (ethnic divisions, the war in Chechnya, the diffusion of authority, economic stagnation, etc.) It includes photos, maps, tables, and a large (32.5" x 46.5") full color map of the region. Social Studies School Services, 1996. Grades 9-12.
- TG-11 International Trade, Teaching Strategies – This teaching guide, designed to help students apply economic concepts and principles to the global marketplace, provides comprehensive information about world trade policy and foreign policy decisions affecting the global market. National Council on Economic Education, 1994. Grades 9-12.
- TG-12 World History: Focus on Economics – This book depicts history from an economic standpoint to show students that history is the study of people and nations making economic decisions about how to use scarce resources. A discussion of communism, socialism, and capitalism is included. National Council Economic Education. Grades 9-12.

- TG-13 Labor Markets in Transition in Central and Eastern Europe: 1989-1995 – The paper analyzes labor market development in nine transition countries of the region by focusing on the dynamics of labor force behavior, employment, and unemployment. The countries featured are Bulgaria, Croatia, the Czech Republic, the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, Hungary, Poland, Romania, the Slovak Republic, and Slovenia. The World Bank, 1996. Grades 9-college.
- TG-14 The Face of Russia – A discussion guide intended to accompany the PBS film, "The Face of Russia." This guide provides brief histories and timelines of the period from 862 A.D. to 1996 along with pictures and photographs of artwork. This series is excellent stimulation for classroom understanding about Russian history, and what that history means to Russians today. WETA Educational Services and Outreach, 1997. Grades 7-12.
- TG-15 Eastern Europe: The Unfinished Revolution – From collectivization to revolution, this guide describes the Soviet Empire after its collapse. Countries included in the study are Czechoslovakia, Romania, Albania, and Hungary. Unlike other books, this guide fully explains the economic transition, not just the political transition. It also contains information about the pollution problem in this region. Stanford Program on International and Cross-Cultural Education (SPICE), 1992. Grades 9-12.
- TG-16 Eastern Europe: Dissidence and Censorship – Censorship was a common practice in Eastern Europe. This book shows specific examples of this practice with a genuine translation of a Polish text before and after censorship. It includes small group projects and activities on censorship with political cartoons and a variety of other documents. Discussion of communism as seen through the people's eyes is also featured. Stanford Program on International and Cross-Cultural Education (SPICE), 1992. Grades 9-12.
- TG-17 Eastern Europe: Captive Lands – This packet deals with the beginning of Soviet, communism, containment, and economics. A discussion of communism as compared to capitalism serves as a great learning tool for students. This guide also explains World War II, U.S. and Soviet policy, and the division of Europe. Student activities include small group projects and tests. Stanford Program on International and Cross-Cultural Education (SPICE) 1992. Grades 9-12.
- TG-18 Global Challenge: Change and Continuity in World Politics – Lloyd Jensen and Lynn H. Miller. A textbook that focuses on history, politics, foreign policy, power, diplomacy, economics, international law, and human rights. The ideas and language in this book are intended for advanced students. Harcourt Brace, 1997. College Level.
- TG-19 Teaching about the Soviet Successor States – A Teacher's Guide that includes a variety of activities and handouts about relations with the West, transition, environmental concerns, and conflict. It shows the problems that East Europe endured and continues to suffer from in order to establish independent countries. American Association for the Advancement of Slavic Studies (AAASS), 1993. Grades 9-12.

- TG-20 Toward a Better Balance: Curriculum Guide for Multicultural Education, Part I – A Teacher’s Guide introducing basic ethnic/multicultural concepts to students with the goal of increasing their understanding and appreciation of various ethnic groups. It includes primary source materials and activities for students. PA Heritage Studies Center at the University of Pittsburgh, 1988. Grades K-6.
- TG-21 Collapse of a Multicultural State: The Case of Yugoslavia – This packet contains handouts on the history of the conflict, maps, cartoons, and discussion questions. A special feature, the "Readers' Theater," is a dramatization of the events surrounding the assassination of Austrian Archduke Franz Ferdinand. Roles include historians, Austrian ministers, Serbian and Bosnian officials, Gavrilo Princip, a Russian official, Woodrow Wilson, and William of Germany. Stanford Program for International and Cross-Cultural Education (SPICE), 1994. Grades 9-college.
- TG-22 Cultural Handbook to the New Independent States – This handbook describes eleven countries which emerged following the Soviet era. The regions included are the Central Asian, Transcaucasian, and Slavic countries. It provides timelines and great overviews of each country's role in Communism, plus their road to capitalism. United States Information Agency, 1995. Grades 9-12.
- TG-23 Russia in Search of Democracy – Mary Theis and Coalee Owlett. A very extensive look at Russia, this book spans the history and politics of Russia. It also contains a cultural view of music, literature, folklore, and the youth of Russia. Diplomatic Academy of the Foreign Ministry of the Russian Federation, 1997. Grades 9-12.
- TG-24 East Central European Education Resource Packet – This book contains lesson plans and articles on East Central Europe for supplemental use in the classroom. The resource packet also includes information about the Balkans and Baltic countries. The East European, Russian and Eurasian National Resource Center at Columbia University, 1993. Grades 9-12.
- TG-25 Changing Europe: East and West, A Faculty Development Seminar – This handbook was used for a faculty development seminar held at the University of Pittsburgh. It includes an extensive bibliography as well as class syllabi on transitions taking place in Europe. University of Pittsburgh, 1993. College Level.
- TG-26 Resource Guide to Teaching Aids in Russian and East European Studies – This catalogue contains a variety of materials pertaining to Russia and East Europe such as slides, video kits, and teaching aids. Items may be obtained for lending purposes from Indiana University. Ordering information is included. Indiana University, 1993.
- TG-27 Russia’s Uncertain Transition: Challenges for U.S. Policy – This book puts students in a position to consider our country’s relationship with Russia and its neighbors. It introduces the economic problems and political crises that have shaped the outlook of policymakers in the Kremlin. Choices for the 21st Century Education Project. Brown University, 1998. Grades 9-12.

- TG-28 Surfing Social Studies – Joseph Braun and C. Frederick Risinger, eds. The Internet has become an important tool in education. This book helps teachers to make good use of what the Internet can offer students. The book is uniquely geared to all grade levels, but includes separate sites for different grades. National Council for Social Studies, 1999. All Grades.
- TG-29 Polishing the Mirror: A Curriculum Unit of Central and Inner Asia – Vika Gardner and R.T. Steponaitis. The Soviet Union’s place on the map included territory in Asia as well as Europe. The fall of the USSR has received a lot of attention on the European side, but what about the Asian side? This is a wonderful book that will enhance any classroom discussion on the former Soviet Union’s Asian countries. University of Michigan, 2000. Grades 9-12.
- TG-30 Common People, Uncommon Strength. Teaching the Rest of the Story: Events of the Common People of Russia – These materials focus on the lives of peasants and workers through the time periods of medieval Russia, imperial Russia, and the Soviet period. Students will learn why knowledge of the lifestyle, challenges and strengths of the common people is essential to understanding Russian history. University of Kansas, 2000. Grades 7-12.
- TG-31 Tools For the Articulation of Russian Language Instruction: Standards, a Curricular Framework, Benchmarks, and Sample Assessments – This book presents the results of a four-year study by two groups of teachers who collectively worked to create guidelines for effective language instruction, using Japanese and Russian as model languages. These guidelines are intended for both elementary and secondary level language instructors. The two teachers’ groups worked extensively with distinguished faculty consultants from several universities including the University of Minnesota, Carlton College and St. Olaf College. University of Minnesota, Center for Advanced Research on Language Acquisition, 1999. All Grades.
- TG-32 The First Thousand Words in Russian – Heather Amery, Katrina Kirilenko, and Stephen Cartwright. This is a picture book for children who are beginning to learn Russian. The book shows individual pictures with their corresponding words, as well as action pictures that allow the students to identify objects. A guide to pronunciation is given for every Russian word. Usborne Publishing Ltd., 1989. Grades 1-8.
- TG-33 The European Union: Impact of Eastern Enlargement – This booklet from a faculty development seminar held at Pitt contains a large collection of resources including sample course syllabi, websites, books, and articles on the enlargement of the EU. College Level.
- TG-34 When Tortoise Wins: Using International Folktales to Teach Language Arts – This collection of folktales from around the world can provide students with a wealth of knowledge in a refreshing manner. They not only help children to grow as language learners, but also provide insight into different cultures. Each story is accompanied by a basic fact sheet about the region as well as a detailed lesson plan. University of Pittsburgh. Grades K-8. (See also folktale-related lesson plans on the Web at <http://www.ucis.pitt.edu/pehsc/>. Click on “Lessons.”)

- TG-35 Why Study Russkiy Yazyk (Russian)? American Association of Teachers of Slavic and East European Languages, 1991. / “Russian in the Real World,” from Russian Life magazine, 2002. This short booklet and article explain why students should consider studying the Russian language, and provide a variety of real-life examples of jobs that are available to graduates with proficiency in Russian. Grades 7-12 and College.
- TG-36 Central Asia: Islamic Diversity from the Mongols to the Present, A Guide for Teachers. Compiled by Pamela Kachurin and Mary Giles. This teachers’ guide places Central Asia in the context of world history and provides resources for further exploration. It includes a timeline, articles, and maps that provide insight into the history of the region’s countries, and emphasizes the significance of Islam to Central Asia. National Resource Center for Russian, East European, and Central Asian Studies, Harvard University. Please see accompanying video set, Islam in Central Asia: Five Lectures on Three Videocassettes (V-18), for additional information.
- TG-37 Who Won the Cold War? A Learning Packet for Secondary Level Study. This packet is a cooperative effort by Kansas teachers, Presidential Library education directors and Title VI National Resource Center Outreach Coordinators. It aims to provide a model for the study of the Cold War at the secondary education level, despite a tendency to overlook this major historical event. The packet includes information about the Cold War, including a timeline and key vocabulary, as well as a detailed lesson plan in which teachers and students consider the Cold War and Korean War together. All materials are provided for this model, and teachers are encouraged to either teach with this theme or prepare other themes with other key events following the model.
- TG-38 University of Kansas Curriculum Materials. This CD ROM contains four different curriculum materials. St. Petersburg Music is a folder that includes the music of various composers from St. Petersburg, Russia. Seven pieces by Glinka are available, as well as 12 pieces of Russian and Revolutionary music. Treasures of St Petersburg: A Cross Curricular Adventure is a unit created by the University of Kansas. It includes many photographs and provides an introduction to the 300-year history of St Petersburg with a focus on culture, art and architecture, and literature. The CD ROM also includes electronic copies of Common People, Uncommon Strength (TG-30) and Who Won the Cold War? (TG-37).
- TG-39 The People Speak Youth Circles – This booklet, a publication of The Choices Program, provides tips and instructions for facilitators of youth circles to encourage the organization of youth groups to discuss global issues. This pamphlet provides exercises, handouts and instructions. Watson Institute for International Studies, Brown University, 2004.
- TG-40 The U.S. Role in a Changing World – This teacher’s resource book, a publication of The Choices Program, is aimed at helping students to consider global changes, national priorities, and making decisions about how they would frame U.S. policies. Watson Institute for International Studies, Brown University, 2004.

Please note that a series of secondary school curriculum guides to new East European members and prospective members of the European Union is being developed by the University of Pittsburgh's Center for Russian and East European Studies. See listings in the Countries section of this directory (e.g., items CB-3, CC-1, etc.)

Additional Resources

In addition to the resources listed above, there are many other Russian and East European materials available. REES works closely with Hillman Library, a facility that has thousands of books that can help in the preparation of any classroom lecture. Please contact Zsuzsánna Magdó, REES Assistant Director, at (412) 648-7407 or zsuzsannamagdo@pitt.edu for assistance in borrowing items from Hillman Library.

The University of Pittsburgh's Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures operates a website listing over 7,000 Russian and East European films that are available at Hillman Library. This collection is the most extensive in North America. You can access the site at www.pitt.edu/~slavic/video/.

REES also offers a "virtual library" of electronic resources, REESWeb. This interactive site allows the user to access current news events, historical topics and cultural information. You can access this award-winning website at www.ucis.pitt.edu/reesweb.

In addition, REES has developed a series of high school to college-level curriculum guides on Central and East European countries that have recently joined the European Union or are preparing for EU membership. These guides are posted for free downloading at www.ucis.pitt.edu/crees/outreach/resources.

Finally, REES has a collection of Russian grammar and literature books, donated by Taylor Allerdice High School in Pittsburgh, which are available for borrowing. The list of titles may be downloaded at www.ucis.pitt.edu/crees/outreach/resources.
