

Course No. CRN	Title	Cr.	Days Time	Location	Instructor	EU/HF
ECONOMICS
ECON 0500 11746	Introduction to International Trade	3.0	M 6:00 P-8:30P	Old. Eng. Hall 316	Cassing, James	EU
HISTORY
HIST 0101 10423	Western Civilization 2 (recitation required)	3.0	T H 9:00A-9:50A	WWPH 1700	Drescher, Seymour	HF
HIST 0101 12930	Western Civilization 2 (recitation required)	3.0	T H 11:00A-11:50A	WWPH 1500	Hagerty, Bernard	HF
HIST 0124 (UHC)	Western Civilization 2	3.0	T H 4:00P-5:15P	CL 219	Novosel, Tony	HF
HIST 1108 13365	Comparative European History	3.0	T H 8:00A-9:15A	CL 239	Thum, Gregor	EU
HIST 1123 12849	Modern Britain	3.0	M W F 1:00P-1:50P	CL 239	White, Joseph	HF
HIST 1128 13287	Modern France 1: 1780-1880	3.0	T H 1:00P-2:15P	Old Eng. Hall 300	Drescher, Seymour	HF
HIST 1131 13366	Modern Germany 1866-1945	3.0	T H 2:30P – 3:45P	CL 216	Thum, Gregor	HF

POLITICAL SCIENCE
PS 1330 20028	EU Capstone Seminar	3.0	W 6:00P-8:30P	4430 Posvar	Marolda, Gemma	EU
PS 1503 19276	International Organization	3.0	T H 2:30P-3:45P	A224 Langley	Thomas, Daniel	EU
PS 1521 12675	Eastern Europe in World Politics	3.0	T H 1:00P-2:15P	LAWRN 105	Linden, Ronald	EU

Course Descriptions

ECON 0500 11746	Introduction to International Trade	3.0	M 6:00 P-8:30P	TBA	Cassing, James	EU
--------------------	--	-----	-------------------	-----	---------------------------	----

This course provides an introduction to the field of international economics. The course divides roughly in half between topics from the pure theory of international trade and from international monetary economics. Whenever possible, topics from the "real world" will be analyzed using the tools we develop in class. Topics to be covered include: alternative pure trade theories; effects of tariffs, quotas, and other non-tariff barriers; U.S. commercial policy; the European Community and other forms of regional integration; the balance of payments, methods for eliminating balance of payments disequilibrium; the international monetary system.

Prerequisite: Econ 0100 and Econ 0110 or Econ 0120 or Econ 0800. No recitation sections.

Expected class size: 40. This course is offered every term.

HIST 0101 10423	Western Civilization 2 (recitation required)	3.0	T H 9:00A-9:50A	WWPH 1700	Drescher, Seymour	HF
--------------------	---	-----	--------------------	--------------	------------------------------	----

This course traces the European origins of our world of mass mobilization and of increasing potential for affluence and destruction. Through lectures, readings, and films it surveys the ways in which people respond to an unprecedented series of economic, political, and cultural transformations from the French Revolution to the age of Hitler and Stalin. It highlights the variety of ways by which historical change and continuity can be measured and how people come to alter their sense of the world and their place in it.

Prerequisite: None. Expected class size: 80. This course is offered every term.

HIST 0101 12930	Western Civilization 2 (recitation required)	3.0	T H 11:00A-11:50A	WWPH 1500	Hagerty, Bernard	HF
--------------------	---	-----	----------------------	--------------	-----------------------------	----

Despite periodic wars and revolutions during the past two centuries, Europe became the first continent to make the difficult transition from a pre-industrial to a modern industrial society. This course will examine the evolution of European civilization as well as the reasons for and costs of the evolution. Beginning with the "old regime" of the eighteenth century, we will study how people exercised, obeyed, and opposed constituted authority. We will then look at a succession of economic transformations, revolutions, and techniques for rallying people to new loyalties. Through a series of readings, lectures, films and discussions, we will explore explanations of why men and women voluntarily changed or were uprooted from the traditional patterns of life experienced by their ancestors. We will also explore why they willingly mobilized for or acquiesced in the destruction of others and themselves in the name of new "deities" of class, nation or race. And finally, we will spend the last two weeks of the class looking at postwar Europe and the creation of the European Union.

Prerequisite: None. Recitation required. Expected class size: 80. This course is offered every term.

HIST 0124 (UHC)	Western Civilization 2	3.0	T H 4:00P-5:15P	CL 219	Novosel, Tony	HF
--------------------	------------------------	-----	--------------------	-----------	--------------------------	----

This class has two main objectives. The first is to provide you with an understanding of how and why the processes begun so long ago led to the two Great Wars of the 20th Century and how this entire period (17th thru the early 20th Century) and these two wars, The Great War in particular, shaped the world we live in today. The second objective is to make you think critically. You should come out of this class with the ability to analyze events of any period of history and understand how they affect our world. Main Themes: This course will follow the time line of Eric Hobsbawm's works on Western European History, from the "Age of Revolution" to the "Age of Extremes." The Age of Revolution focuses on the French and Industrial Revolutions. The Age of Capital-1848-1871 - focuses on the period of rapid development in creation of wealth and the rise of the Middle Classes in Western Europe. The Age of Empire will focus on the period of European expansion, economically and militarily. The Age of Extremes -1914-1991- focuses on the end of European History and the beginning of World History. This last stage of our study will center on The Great War itself, its impact on all facets of life in the 20th Century.

Prerequisite: You should be confident in your writing skills. You will also need computer and internet skills, as the entire syllabus and many of the readings will be online. Expected class size: 20. This course is offered once a year.

HIST 1108 13365	Comparative European History	3.0	T H 8:00A-9:15A	CL 239	Thum, Gregor	EU
--------------------	---------------------------------	-----	--------------------	--------	-----------------	----

This course will introduce the problematic history of the nation-state in Eastern Europe. Comparing the creation and development of the Polish, Czechoslovak and Ukrainian nation-state during the 20th century, students will learn how a region that was once characterized by its ethnic heterogeneity experienced a rapid ethnic homogenization through the policies of assimilation, forced migration, 'ethnic cleansing', and genocide. Dealing with an important and nevertheless often neglected aspect of Eastern Europe's history, this course will also allow thinking in general about the consequences of creating ethnically defined states in geographical areas of mixed settlement. Prerequisite: None. No recitation sections. Expected class size: 40. This course is once a year.

HIST 1123 12849	Modern Britain	3.0	M W F 1:00P-1:50P	CL 239	White, Joseph	HF
--------------------	----------------	-----	----------------------	--------	------------------	----

The great theme of modern British history is the rise and decline of the British empire. The first empire, with its origins in the Puritan migrations of the early seventeenth century, collapsed after the battle of Yorktown in 1781. The new Victorian empire had its origins in the industrialized Britain of the early nineteenth century. Its "golden age" was the reign of Queen Victoria (1837-1901), whose Diamond Jubilee marked the climax of imperialist fervor. The gradual decline of the empire was symbolized in the career of Winston Churchill, who fought as a young man the colonial campaigns of the Sudan, defended the empire in two world wars and lived to see its dissolution after World War II. Throughout this long period the empire had its critics as well as its defenders. In this course we will examine the impact upon British society of the rise and decline of its imperial and industrial strength. What effects did the Century of Empire have in determining contemporary patterns of class and race relations in Britain, and where does the country's future international role lie within Europe and in the world at large?

Prerequisite: None. No recitations. Expected class size: 40. This course is offered once a year.

HIST 1128 13287	Modern France 1: 1780-1880	3.0	T H 1:00P-2:15P	Old Eng. Hall 300	Drescher, Seymour	HF
--------------------	-------------------------------	-----	--------------------	----------------------	----------------------	----

For a hundred years after her Great Revolution in 1789, the French sustained a reputation as the most turbulent people in Europe, the pacemakers of political and cultural development. Yet was France really an example of radically and rapidly changing society? This course examines the contradictions of a nation haunted by its revolutionary leap from an old to a new regime, where old ways persisted everywhere, in culture, economy and society.

Prerequisite: No prerequisites but a survey knowledge of European history of French culture will be helpful to individual students. No recitations. Expected class size: 40. This course is offered at least once a year.

HIST 1131	Modern Germany	3.0	T H	CL 216	Thum,	HF
-----------	----------------	-----	-----	--------	-------	----

13366	1866-1945		2:30P – 3:45P		Gregor
-------	-----------	--	---------------	--	--------	--

This is a lecture and discussion course on German history, from the foundation of the North German Federation to the end of the Second World War. While the structure of the course is shaped by the main political changes, considerable attention is given to the evolution of society, ideas and cultural life as well. Background lectures on selected topics and periods are followed by class discussions.

Prerequisite: Western Civilization recommended. No recitations. Expected class size: 40. This course is offered once a year.

A one credit German “trailer” will be available to anyone enrolled in the class who studies or speaks German and has completed level 0004 of the language. Permission to enroll will be granted by the instructor, but for more information you may contact Steve Lund at slund@ucis.pitt.edu.

PS 1330 20028	EU Capstone Seminar	3.0	TBA	TBA	TBA	EU
------------------	---------------------	-----	-----	-----	-----	----

This course serves as a capstone for the certificate in European Union Studies. It offers students the opportunity to synthesize their previous research and study of the E.U. The topic will change occasionally to accommodate new developments and research. The seminar format will encourage student-led discussions.

Prerequisite: PS 117 Politics of the European Union. No recitation sections. Expected class size: 18. This course will be offered every fall.

PS 1503 19276	International Organization	3.0	T H 2:30P-3:45P	TBA	Thomas, Daniel	EU
------------------	-------------------------------	-----	--------------------	-----	-------------------	----

International politics is often described as a jungle in which might makes right. This course will question that description by examining the various ways in which the international system is governed by rules and institutions, as well as the dynamics and the limits of this global governance. It will consider formal organizations at the global and regional levels such as the United Nations and the European Union, less formal regimes established to manage common resources such as the oceans or address global problems such as money laundering, and decentralized systems of rule enforcement involving non-governmental organizations.

Prerequisite: PS 0500. No recitation sections. Expected class size: 50. This course is offered at least once a year.

PS 1521 1275	Eastern Europe in World Politics	3.0	T H 1:00P-2:15P	LAWRN 105	Linden, Ronald	EU*
-----------------	-------------------------------------	-----	--------------------	--------------	-------------------	-----

This class will count towards the EU Studies certificate only if the student’s final paper includes some discussion of Eastern Europe and the EU. The student should consult with Professor Linden on course and paper requirements and Steve Lund on certificate requirements.

Eastern Europe has now seen more than a decade of dramatic changes encompassing a movement away from one-party dictatorship and state-run economies to democratic politics and market economies. These changes have affected and been affected by developments in Europe, including Russia, Euro-Atlantic relations and international relations more broadly. The aim of this course is to explore the background and dynamics of the remarkable changes in 'the other Europe.' The course will move quickly over the history of the region generally referred to as 'East Europe' and will focus primarily on contemporary developments. A particular focus of the course is the impact on the region of developments elsewhere, especially in the politics and policies of outside powers, and the ripple effect of changes in the region on European and world politics. (International Relations Field)

Prerequisite: There are no specific for the course but as it is an upper level course students will be much better off if they have already had basic courses in world politics, European or comparative politics or especially European or East European history. No recitation sections. Expected class size: 50. In the past this course has been offered once a year, usually in the fall.

Foreign Languages Approved for the certificate in EU Studies

You must complete the fourth semester of one of the following languages:

French
German
Greek (Modern) *
Hungarian *
Italian
Polish
Portuguese
Slovak
Spanish
Swedish *

* Courses listed under Linguistics