

The Center for Latin American Studies (CLAS)
at the University of Pittsburgh
Presents

PANORAMAS LATIN AMERICAN ROUNDTABLE

Argentina's Election and Economic Situation

Panelists:

Ariel Armony

Senior Director of International Programs and Director of UCIS

Aníbal Pérez-Liñán

Professor of Political Science and Editor of LARR

Marla Ripoll

Associate Professor of Economics and Director of Graduate Studies

Tuesday, November 3, 2015

4217 Posvar Hall

University of Pittsburgh Campus

12:00 p.m. (noon)

On October 25th, Argentina had a pivotal election that has resulted in a future runoff in late November. Panoramas has put together a panel to analyze the results amidst questions of electoral transparency, opportunities for private investments, currency and trade controls, relations with the United States, and public spending.

Come and join us for this stimulating discussion!

For a related Panoramas article see:

<http://www.panoramas.pitt.edu/content/argentina-prepares-pivotal-election#.dpuf>

For more information about the event email: bravo@pitt.edu

Visit Panoramas at: <http://www.panoramas.pitt.edu/>

