Undergraduate Internship Opportunity

The College of Arts and Sciences (University of Pittsburgh) has approved internship opportunities for undergraduate students interested in Latin American Studies. The interns will work with the Center's outreach coordinator conducting research and developing lessons on Latin America for presentation in kindergarten through high school (K-12) classrooms as part of the Center's School Visit Program. Interns will be supervised during all stages of the program and required to work an average of 10 hours per week. The internship is equivalent to a 3 credit course and may apply toward the certificate in Latin American Studies. Also see College of Arts and Sciences webpage at: <http://www.pitt.edu/~intern>. Once you have arrived at the website, go to internship opportunities; then to foreign language – that should bring you to the internship for the Center for Latin American Studies' School Visit Program.

The Student Journal of Latin American Studies at The University of Texas at Austin 2009

2010 Call for Papers

The Student Journal of Latin American Studies at The University of Texas at Austin is accepting papers from graduate and undergraduate students. The Student Journal of Latin American Studies is an interdisciplinary journal that seeks to foster student research on topics relating to Latin America, promote a better understanding of the region, and link the research of graduate and undergraduate students around the world.

We invite all students conducting research related to Latin America to contribute to the journal and encourage faculty and staff across colleges and disciplines to promote this opportunity among their students. In order to be considered for publication, the articles must be submitted by January 4, 2010. Articles may be written in English or Spanish and a maximum of 8000 words long.

Those interested in contributing to the Student Journal of Latin American Studies or promoting it will find more information on our website: <http://www.SJofLAS.org>. The first issue can also be found on this website. If you have any questions or comments, please contact us at sjoflas@gmail.com

Convocatoria de Artículos, 2009 – 2010

El Student Journal of Latin American Studies (Revista Estudiantil de Estudios Latinoamericanos) de la Universidad de Texas en Austin acepta trabajos escritos por estudiantes de maestría y licenciatura.

La revista es de carácter interdisciplinario y busca aumentar publicaciones de investigaciones estudiantiles en las áreas relacionadas con Latinoamérica. También tiene como propósito promover el conocimiento de ésta región, y vincular las investigaciones hechas por estudiantes de licenciatura y postgrado alrededor del mundo.

Invitamos a los estudiantes latinoamericanos y a quienes investigan esta región a contribuir con ensayos o artículos para esta revista. Nuestro objetivo es que a través de este medio podamos acercarnos y estrechar lazos académicos y de amistad.

Para el próximo número a publicar, las propuestas de ensayos deben llegar más tardar el día 4 de enero de 2010. Los ensayos pueden ser escritos en inglés o español y con un máximo de 8000 palabras.

Si desea contribuir o promover la Revista Estudiantil de Estudios Latinoamericanos, puede encontrar más información en nuestro sitio web: <http://www.sjoflas.org/>. El primer número de esta revista se encuentra también en línea. Si tienen alguna pregunta o comentario, contáctenos a sjoflas@gmail.com

Call for Research Proposals

Housing Finance in Latin America and the Caribbean: What is holding it back?

This project seeks to describe the current state and evolution of the national system of housing finance in Latin America and the Caribbean, as well as associated current and past government policy initiatives. The project will study both the outcomes (the state of the housing finance system) and inputs (primarily policy actions, as well as other country characteristics including but not limited to market or government failures). The project also aims to explain the extent of development of the housing finance system, to assess the effectiveness of the housing finance system, and to identify where further reform and policy changes are needed.

Proposals are due: December 18, 2009

For more information or to submit proposal, please visit:

Call for Conference Papers

(Re) Imaging Spaces: Migration, Identity, and Memory

The (re)configurations, privatizations and ruptures of space—cultural, literary, physical, corporal and historical—have emerged as theoretical positions through which scholars can attempt to understand phenomena from Hispanic and Lusophone worlds. In this sense, in what capacity does literal and metaphorical space help us understand issues of migration, identity, and memory?

On behalf of the department of Spanish and Portuguese at the Ohio State University, the Hispanic and Lusophone Studies Symposium Committee invites the submission of abstracts, panel and workshop proposals for this year's symposium.

Presentations may be made in Portuguese, Spanish, and English.

Submission Policy:

Individual presentations should be no longer than 20 minutes in duration. Abstracts and panel proposals must be at most 250 words. They may be submitted in .pdf, .ps, .doc, or .rtf attachments. Submissions are anonymous. The body of the e-mail should contain the following information: title of the paper/panel proposal, area of specialization, name, postal address, e-mail, and affiliation of the author(s) (hard copy submissions should include the information above on a separate sheet). The subject of the email should include the terms "Literatures and Cultures."

Conference Dates: April 23-24, 2010

Location: The Ohio State University, Columbus OH

Deadline for submission of abstracts: December 14, 2009

Conference Fee for accepted presenters is $35 Graduate Students, $50 Faculty.

Early registration fee is $25 Graduate Students, $40 Faculty if submitted by March 26th.

Please submit the abstract/proposals to: symposium\_sppo@osu.edu

The Ohio State University Congress on Hispanic and Lusophone Linguistics (OSUCHiLL 2010)

We welcome papers dealing with any theoretical aspect of Hispanic or Lusophone Linguistics including but not limited to sociolinguistics, pragmatics, phonetics, phonology, morphology, psycholinguistics, semantics and syntax. Talks will be allotted 20 minutes for presentation and 10 minutes for discussion, and may be given in English, Spanish or Portuguese. We also welcome papers which discuss creoles or indigenous languages of Hispanic and Lusophone countries.

Abstracts written in English, Spanish or Portuguese should be anonymous, and no more than 500 words in length. They may be submitted on Linguistlist.org at the following link, <http://linguistlist.org/confcustom/OSUCHiLL> or by e-mail according to the instructions below.

Abstracts sent by e-mail should be sent as a pdf attachment with the subject LINGUISTICS CONGRESS by e-mail to: symposium\_sppo@osu.edu by December 20, 2009 with the following information contained in the body of the email: Name, Affiliation, Email address, Linguistic subfield, Paper title

Details will be posted on our website: sppo.osu.edu/symposium

Conference Dates: April 23-24, 2010

Location: Columbus, Ohio

Keynote Speakers: Marlyse Baptista (University of Michigan) & Brian Joseph (The Ohio State University)

Call Deadline: December 20, 2009

Inquiries may be sent to: symposium\_sppo@osu.edu

Conference organizers: Juliana De la Mora de-la-mora.1@osu.edu, Mary Johnson johnson.3415@osu.edu

19th Annual Columbia/NYU Graduate Student Conference on Hispanic and Lusophone Literatures and Cultures

Title of Conference: "Rooms for Discussion"

Rooms for Discussion will experiment with a change from the traditional format of the conference to that of the workshop. To that end, we ask graduate students to submit proposals related to the issues they are researching and concerned about in order to discuss them broadly among peers from different critical backgrounds. We believe this format will allow the participants an active role and will fulfill a basic goal of graduate student conferences: the discussion of our research. We look forward to receiving proposals for topics in Hispanic and Lusophone cultures that articulate various problems in our areas of study.

The workshops will be structured around brief presentations (three pages) that describe the central issues of a research project in progress; these texts will be accessible ahead of time on the conference website. Each presentation will be complemented by dialogue with a pre-assigned respondent who will open the discussion. Participants and attendees will arrange themselves in a circle and there will be plenty of time for exchange. The dynamic of questions, discussion, and suggestions will permit a fluid, open interaction that will give participants the opportunity to present their work more freely.

The assembly of the workshops will be equally open and participatory.

We invite you to collaborate through the conference website in two ways. First, you can suggest a topic for a workshop, consisting of a title and an explanation of up to 100 words. Secondly, you can post a 250-word abstract describing the presentation you would like to make in a particular workshop. The deadline for both requests is January 3, 2010.

Conference Dates: April 2-3, 2010

For more information, please visit: www.roomsfordiscussion.blogspot.com

V Transatlantic Conference, “Futuros (Transiciones, Agencias, Traducciones)”

The Transatlantic Project at Brown welcomes abstracts on new trends, topics, agents, and cultural artifacts that are configuring the immediacy of the future. Proposals on new ideas, debates and scenarios are expected. Also welcome are sessions on narratives of the new, young film and music, as well as sessions on blogs and electronic literature. Papers, in Spanish or English, may document a sense of the future as a process of translation, a state of bilingualism, and the rise of networks of communication.

The conference is especially interested in, but not limited to, the perspectives of Cuban reforms and discussions on modernity in Peru. Proposals on ethical issues, political discourses, and class and cultural representations are also welcome.

We will celebrate the writers Luis Goytisolo (Spain), Sergio Ramírez (Nicaragua) and Reina María Rodríguez (Cuba). The centenaries of Emilio Adolfo Westphalen and José María Arguedas as well as 40 years of Alfredo Bryce Echenique’s Un mundo para Julius convoke special sessions .

Mail abstract by January 15, 2010 to: Hispanic Studies, Box 1961, Brown University, Providence, RI 02912 or email María\_Pizarro\_Prada@Brown.edu

Conference Dates: April 7-10, 2010

Location: Brown University

Registration: students ($75), professors ($100)

Sponsored by Brown’s Department of Hispanic Studies, Center for Latin American Studies, the Office of the President, and the Dean of the Faculty, with support from the Instituto Cervantes, New York, Universidad de Guadalajara, TEC de Monterrey, and CONACULTA, Mexico.

The William Zitzmann Visiting Scholar Fellowship in Latin American Studies

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) at Johns Hopkins University invites applications for the William Zitzmann Visiting Scholar Fellowship for the academic year 2010-11. The Fellowship is for one semester in residence at Johns Hopkins University (August 20- December 20, 2010 or January 5 - June 1, 2011). The competition is open to Latin American scholars who work and live in Latin America, and who hold a Masters degree or higher in the fields of social sciences, humanities and history.

The fellow will teach one undergraduate course, present a paper on his or her research for PLAS faculty and students, participate in the PLAS colloquia series and annual conference, and otherwise engage in the intellectual life of the Program. Because courses are taught in English, proficiency in both written and spoken English is required of all Visiting Scholars.

The Fellowship offers a $20,000 stipend, health insurance for the Fellow, $1500 travel allowance, and a $1000 research fund.

Eligibility Requirements: Fluency in English; at least three years university level teaching experience as main instructor in the fields mentioned above; and an ongoing research commitment in Latin America.

Applications should include:

- (1) a cover letter briefly describing the Fellow's research and teaching experience, the reasons s/he is applying for the PLAS Fellowship, and what the Fellow hopes to accomplish while in residence at Johns Hopkins University;
- (2) A 3-5 page description of a well-defined current research project to be carried out during the Fellow's residency at Johns Hopkins University (other than manuscript revisions projects);
- (3) a 1-2 page course description;
- (4) a full updated curriculum vitae;
- (5) two letters of recommendation from individuals familiar with the applicant's research and teaching experience.

Completed applications may be sent electronically to: PLAS@jhu.edu, or by regular mail to: John Russell-Wood, Director, Program in Latin American Studies, Johns Hopkins University, Macaulay Hall 404, 3400 N. Charles St., Baltimore, MD 21218, USA.

Deadline for receipts of applications is March 1, 2010

Fellowship will be announced by May 1, 2010.

Costa Rica Study Abroad

Gap Year: International Study for Students & Teachers

Gap years, a common tradition in most parts of Europe, are becoming more and more popular in the United States and Canada. Students are feeling more comfortable taking a year off before starting or in the midst of university to get focused, and to gain some international exposure.

Strategic Decisions & Partnerships (SDPUS) offers distinctive "gap year" semester courses, all of which have been given academic credit in the United States and Canada. They are courses which couple adventure travel with basic humanity projects such as helping a disadvantaged Costa Rican school or by working with an ecological organization, such as "SAVE THE SEA TURTLES" in Las Baulas National Park.

This is a considerable advantage to your gap year or study abroad semester, because not only do you get to experience the most amazing parts of Central America, you also come out ahead scholastically and culturally.

Internships Available

The Council on Hemispheric Affairs (COHA) is looking for qualified interns to join our team in Washington, D.C. for the fall term. Founded in 1975, COHA is a major tax-exempt, nonprofit and nonpartisan national research and information organization established to encourage the formulation of rational and constructive U.S. policies towards Latin America. These internships provide valuable entry level practical experience in dealing with a variety of hemispheric political, economic, diplomatic and trade issues. They also provide young scholars with an excellent opportunity to be exposed to the policymaking process. COHA is seeking highly qualified undergraduate and graduate students, and those who already have earned degrees. Intern candidates should have some knowledge and/or interest in U.S.-Latin American affairs or international relations, and should display impressive research and writing skills. Preference will be given to full-time applicants and to those skilled with computer technology and web design. The position is available immediately.

Employment Opportunities

Assistant Professor, Department of History of Art and Architecture, University of Pittsburgh

The University of Pittsburgh, Department of History of Art and Architecture, invites applications to fill a tenure-stream faculty position in modern/contemporary architectural history at the rank of Assistant Professor, effective September 2010, pending budgetary approval. Architectural historians whose research focus is in East Asian or Latin American modern/contemporary architecture are preferred. The department is also particularly interested in candidates whose research and teaching explore interconnections across cultures and/or time periods.

The successful candidate will be an integral part of a department with a longstanding and ambitious PhD program as well as a dynamic undergraduate architectural studies program.

The department has strong linkages with allied research programs elsewhere in the university, such as the Cultural Studies Program, the Humanities Center, the World History Center, and the University Center for International Studies. The latter includes federally funded area studies centers in East Asian, Latin American, Russian and East European, and European Union studies. Established long ago, these centers support research and teaching efforts as well as superb libraries. The city and region of Pittsburgh are home to a superb stock of both vernacular and landmark buildings (including highly affordable housing), high-profile LEED projects, great urban parks, and significant cultural institutions such as the Carnegie Library and Museum of Art, adjacent to the University, which houses the Heinz Architectural Center. Qualifications: PhD is required. We seek candidates who have an interest in pedagogy, who are prepared to teach courses that deal with methodological issues, and who have the ability to connect research specializations to broader intellectual frameworks both inside and outside the discipline.

Please send a letter of application, current CV, a sample publication (or dissertation chapter), three letters of reference, and evidence of teaching effectiveness to: Search Committee, Department of the History of Art and Architecture, 104 Frick Fine Arts, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, PA 15260. In order to ensure full consideration, applications must be received by December 15, 2009. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity Employer. Women and members of the minority groups under-represented in academia are especially encouraged to apply.

Program Assistant for 2010 Summer Field School, The Open School of Ethnography & Anthropology (OSEA)

OSEA Seeks 1 or 2 Program Assistants for 2010 Summer Field School. The number of assistants hired will depend upon final program enrollment and qualifications/ experiences of applicants. We seek a highly motivated, mature, professional, with developed qualifications and/or experience in both office/clerical management and academic teaching/research. Work schedule includes pre-program activities during April and May, the program per se, and post program activities. The person must also have a flexible yet well defined personality that can adapt to different kinds of social contexts, cultural norms, personalities, and contingencies.

The selected person(s) fulfills one or more roles simultaneously: (A) Teaching and Research Assistant. (B) Instructor, if possible and according to expertise in areas such as conversational Spanish, ethnography, anthropology, or related cultural studies fields. (C) Student Liaison and Supervisor of Student Activities. (D) Financial/Program Administrator.

Time commitment: full time 40-55 hours a week, during the 8 weeks of the OSEA Field School Program plus 4 days prior to start date and 4 days post closing date. In addition, the assistant works approximately 4 weeks at quarter time in pre-program preparation. This may include preparation of course materials, guiding participants with pre-travel issues, and related pre-program activities. During the field school there is scheduled free time and a program break from work (expenses are out of pocket). Total time is approximately 9 weeks on site. There is post-program work of one week at half-time, which can be conducted off-site, to complete administrative responsibilities by September. Pay scale is dependent upon qualifications of applicant. Payment includes food and lodging while on-site, partial to full reimbursement of airfare, ground travel from airport to program site, and a monetary stipend. Benefits include option to take structured Maya language course (at introductory, intermediate, or advanced levels) and advising on Assistant's research and/or writing where relevant/ desired. While the position is seasonal, there is the option for continued part-time work during the academic year 2010-11 and renewal of position for 2011.

To apply, send a cover letter that explains your interest in and motivations to work with OSEA and in Yucatán, vita/resume, and contact information for two professional references. The letter should include descriptions of any and all undergraduate or graduate research and travel experience, especially in Latin America and Mexico, disciplinary training to date, professional goals in short and long term. Please send an academic curriculum vitae and either a business resume or an addenda to the CV that details non-academic work experience, positions, and skills, including Spanish or other language proficiencies. Applicants with a minimum of anthropology background is desired but those with training in any related field of cultural-social studies and practical experience in office administration/secretarial, NGO management, community development, and/or art fields are encouraged to apply. Ability to teach or practical experience in teaching conversational Spanish at introductory levels is a welcome skill to highlight. In your cover letter please clarify what special skills, leadership, training, experience, or current projects that you bring to the Field School that would be a unique asset to the development of student participants and staff or that would contribute to the OSEA experience.

Applicants may be graduate students working toward a Masters or a Ph.D. or post-degree professionals with academic/research backgrounds. Applications can be submitted any time from posting until the position is filled or no later than December 15. Submit your materials directly to Quetzil Castañeda, OSEA, 2244 Martha Street, Bloomington, IN 47408.

For more information: Quetzil E. Castañeda, 812-669-1369 office & voicemail, quetzil@osea-cite.org
