MIGRATION CHINESE in Cuba, Mexico and Peru: FROM 19TH CENTURY COOLIE LABOR TO 20TH CENTURY NATIONALIST SINOPHOBIA

by

Elliot Young (Professor of History, Lewis and Clark College Asian Studies Center)

Date: Friday, February 19, 2016

Time: 3:00 p.m.

Location: 4130 Posvar Hall

250,000 Chinese “coolies” were transported to Latin America between 1847-1874, primarily to Cuba and Peru. Bound by 5-8 year contracts that in many cases had to be renewed, Chinese were treated similarly to African slaves. For liberal ideology, the contract was supposed to symbolize and guarantee freedom, and yet it did the opposite. This talk shows how the transition from slave to free labor allowed for a continuation of bondage and exploitation under the thin veil of individual free will. Although the Chinese “coolie” trade ended in 1874, Chinese migrants in Latin America faced a rising tide of nationalist xenophobia and racist violence in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

Elliot Young teaches Latin American and Borderlands history at Lewis and Clark College. He is currently director of the Ethnic Studies program, and has directed Latin American Studies and served as chair of the History department. In 2003, he co-founded the Tepoztlán Institute for Transnational History of the Americas, which brings together scholars from throughout North and Latin America for an intensive weeklong workshop on transnational history.

Symposium: New Perspectives on Latin American Documentary Film

Date: March 31 and April 1, 2016

The main objectives of the symposium are to showcase multiple aspects of documentary film from and about Latin America and the Caribbean and provide a forum for analyzing, theorizing and provoking discussion on a wide range of documentary filmmaking practices, history and genres. Featured speakers are both practitioners and researchers whose work frames, historicizes, or embodies questions about Latin American documentary filmmaking as a political, aesthetic, and increasingly hybrid form. Special emphasis will be placed on documentaries and scholars that focus on indigenous cultures, women, and marginalized communities in Latin America.

STUDY ABROAD OPPORTUNITIES

Chile Open Doors Program

Chile is currently undergoing a large-scale reform to its public education system, which is meant to strengthen and improve the quality of education for public schools in Chile. These reforms are targeting municipal schools in particular, with the aim of providing more specific resources and support according to schools' greatest needs. With that in mind, it is with great pleasure that we announce that the English Opens Doors Program has been granted the tremendous responsibility of carrying out the English language education component of Chile's educational reform! In other words, the English Opens Doors Program will be the entity in charge of improving and strengthening English Language Education in approximately 1,000 schools over the next three years through diverse initiatives like our Teacher Development Programs, Students Development Programs, On-line English and Methodology courses for teachers and students and, of course, the National Volunteer Center Initiative!

We are officially starting to make strides in this mission to improve public education in Chile, and increase the level of opportunities available to students who can't afford to pay for a privately funded education. Due to the fact that this new challenge requires a considerable amount of restructuring and reworking of our pre-existing protocols and procedures, the Program has made changes to our volunteer services from what we had originally published. Fortunately, for the students and alumni of your university, this means that our application deadlines for our 2016 volunteer services have also been pushed back! Please refer to our website for more information: www.centrodevoluntarios.cl.

If you have any questions, or would like to further discuss our volunteer opportunities (via e-mail, skype, or even scheduling a video conference with interested persons), please do not hesitate to contact Stephanie.hairgrove@mineduc.cl.

LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES OPPORTUNITIES

Colombia Human Rights Delegation

March 5 - 13, 2016

Application deadline: January 22, 2016

Join us for GYC's first Human Rights Delegation to Colombia!

<http://www.globalyouthconnect.org/#!/colombia-program-page/c1ft0>

GYC engages delegates who are: committed to mutually beneficial international exchange. Driven to learn about human rights and transitional justice. Interested in understanding the complexities of the Colombian context.

Delegates will have the opportunity to travel to Bogotá and Cartagena, Colombia to learn about the country's history, the progress fostered by the peace process, and the work being done by leaders in the development sector. Site visits and discussions with stakeholders will consider a range of human rights issues, including security, education, housing, and justice for victims. We will be visiting human rights organizations, resettled and informal communities, as well as educational and memory centers.

This program is designed for college students who wish to explore Colombia's human rights climate, engage in a mutually beneficial exchange, and tackle challenging questions about peace, justice, and access to resources. Program fees include local accommodations, all transportation while in country, the cost of activities and site visits, two group dinners, and supplies.

The Kings International Development Institute at King's College London—MSc Latin American Development

This programme integrates a thorough grounding in development theory with the in-depth study of Latin America. This region, known for its historically high levels of inequality and its recurrent political and economic crises, has been enjoying a period of democratic consolidation, economic growth, and falling inequality. Through exploring the contemporary and historical experiences of this region, students will develop an understanding of the deep roots of social change and the background to current development challenges and policy debates.

The MSc Latin American Development highlights the importance of Latin America's position in the global order, as well as the relationships between countries of the region, in shaping countries' policy options and development outcomes. Drawing on the broader expertise within the King's Global Institutes, the MSc will also interrogate how experiences of emerging economies around the world illuminate the issues facing Latin America. The emphasis is on understanding the ways Latin America is trying to overcome long-standing barriers to stability and prosperity.

The focus on integrating theory, data, and history will foster students' critical and analytical skills as they examine how Latin American countries are promoting growth and economic, social and political development in new and often innovative ways.

CONFERENCES/CALL FOR PAPERS/LECTURES/SEMINARS (Other institutions)

Seminar

U.S. Foreign Policy Summer Program is now accepting applications:

U.S. Foreign Policy in a Global Era: Washington, D.C. and the World Advanced Undergraduate Students, Graduate Students, and Professionals Invited to Apply

Session One: May 16-27

Session Two: July 11-23

Program Website: <http://usfmsp.elliott.gwu.edu/about-program>

Programs Brochure: <http://usfmsp.elliott.gwu.edu/program-schedule>

Held in the heart of Washington DC, these dynamic two-week seminars are ideal for students and professionals from around the world who wish to learn more about how U.S. foreign policy is formulated, the history that informs it, the political culture that sustains it, the ideas and interests that drive it, and the people and institutions responsible for its implementation. Students will interact with leading scholars, officials, and other professionals to gain an understanding of the many influences and perspectives that are brought to bear on U.S. foreign policy. The U.S. Foreign Policy in a Global Era seminars will be especially attractive to those interested in political science, international relations, American studies, area studies, public policy or public administration, journalism, and business.

For the past eleven years, the Elliott School has offered these summer seminars to teach participants about the complex factors that shape Washington's interaction with the world. Students attend on-site and off-site lectures with our faculty and other prominent guest speakers from institutions around the city. Our lead professor, Nancy J. Walker, is a senior civil servant with an extensive career in Washington DC focusing on African Affairs. She is a true "insider's insider" in the foreign policy community, and the students are the direct beneficiaries of her connections.

The Elliott School offers two, two-week sessions, both open to graduate students, professionals, and select advanced undergraduate students. Participants earn 3 George Washington University academic credits for successful completion of the seminar; and depending upon their academic programs, students may apply these credits toward their degree requirements at their home institutions. Students may also choose to audit the course.

We offer affordable housing on GW's campus, just steps from the White House, the National Mall, and the World Bank. Each seminar is capped at 25 people; and in past years approximately half of the participants were from outside the United States.

Please encourage your students to consider this exciting program as an excellent way to acquire an in-depth understanding of the context in which U.S. foreign policy is made and implemented, while at the same time spending part of the summer in Washington, DC. More information is available on our web site: <http://usfmsp.elliott.gwu.edu/> and in our digital brochure. Students can also join the program Facebook page <https://www.facebook.com/usfmsp.gwu>. If you have any questions or would like hard copy materials, please feel free to contact me or our coordinator Katherine Safon at usfmsp@gwu.edu or at (202) 994-7678.

CALL FOR PAPERS

Indiana University CLACS Graduate Conference: Access & Control: Resources and Technology in the Global South

Date: March 3 to March 5, 2016

Location: Indiana University, Bloomington

Deadline for applications to participate in the Indiana University CLACS Graduate Conference is quickly approaching on January 22nd, 2016. We would appreciate if you could distribute this reminder to graduate students.

Also, we would like to bring to your attention the addition of the Martins-Sadlier prize for best paper in Brazilian Studies, which will be awarded during our keynote reception. The winner will receive a monetary prize and a certificate.

The conference is specifically designed to not be exclusively focused on Latin America and the Caribbean. Our hope is to feature presentations on research about access and control of resources and technology from various geographical areas that fit into the Global South paradigm. To that end, we would greatly appreciate if you could forward this email and Call for Papers to other area studies programs at your university. A highlight of our conference is our ability to offer travel grants to students coming from outside of Indiana University to cover transportation costs (ranging $200-$600). We can also provide accommodations and a majority of meals, making participating in our conference an affordable way to present research to a wider, multidisciplinary audience. An opening address will be presented by IU Geography Professor Dr. Majed Akhter, titled "Drones, dams, and uneven development: Historical and emerging techno-geographies of the Global South." The conference keynote will be a talk by Dr. Marion Werner of the State University of New York, Buffalo, Geography Department, titled "Food Systems and Sovereignty in the Caribbean."

For more information, please visit <http://www.indiana.edu/~clacs/events/gsc/> or contact us at clacs@indiana.edu.

CALL FOR PAPERS

Media and Belonging--Communication, Technology and Cultural Productions in Latin America

From the first forms of chronicle writing in early colonial times to the latest innovations in digital communication technologies, different forms of production and circulation of information have had central roles in shaping identities and senses of belonging in the region today known as Latin America.

This conference aims to promote discussions on the historical and critical consideration of diverse forms of media and their relationship with the formation and the contestation of identities concerning questions of ideology, class, ethnicity, gender, family and religion, among others, both in national and transnational contexts. We ask the following questions:

- How has unequal access to technologies of communication and cultural production been implicated in the formation of identities throughout Latin American history?
- How has the construction of identities served to reinforce but also challenge categorical inequalities endemic to Latin America?
- How have technologies of cultural production shaped different conceptions of Latin American and Latino cultures in transnational contexts?
- How to read, interpret, and question the representation of experience in literary and artistic works that reflect on histories of difference?
- How have the figures of the author and the public changed with the use of new technologies in art and communication?
- How do we analyze media representations of populations undergoing language change, language planning, and multilingualism?
- What are the current roles of new media and information technologies in language documentation, language revitalization, literacy diversification, and language pedagogy?

In the spirit of opening constructive dialogue across different perspectives and methodologies, we welcome submissions from all disciplines on any related topic including, but not restricted to:

Anthropology – History – Literary, Film and Cultural Studies – Linguistics – Art History
Sociology – Media Studies – Journalism – Regional and Global Studies – Political Science

CALL FOR PAPERS

Tropical Exposures: Photography, Film and Visual Culture in a Caribbean Frame

Date: March 10 to March 12, 2016

Location: Tulane University, New Orleans, Louisiana

We offer our conference as a forum in which to peruse and absorb the visual turn in con-temporary inquiry from the unique vantage points of the Caribbean, and circum-Caribbean diasporas. We conceive the tropical exposure as a frame for representing the region's strengths and vulnerabilities and for questioning the interaction of Antillean sensibilities with a plethora of images and mediascapes. Our invited keynote speakers include photographer Virginia Beahan and artist Francisco Crespo.

For more information about the conference, location and arrangements, visit the Cuban and Caribbean Studies Institute website at <http://cuba.tulane.edu/>.

Global Links

Global Links is a medical relief and development organization dedicated to promoting environmental stewardship and improving health in resource-poor communities, primarily in Latin America and the Caribbean. Our two-fold mission provides hospitals with a socially and environmentally beneficial alternative to sending hundreds of tons of still-useful surplus materials to landfills.

Hospitals and clinics in under-served communities often lack the supplies and equipment necessary to provide even basic care to their patients, resulting in needless suffering and deaths. At the same time, the US healthcare industry generates a staggering amount of medical surplus which, without intervention, is destined to pile up in our landfills.

Global Links' innovative model of recovery and reuse connects these two social problems in a way that helps to solve both, creating a "virtuous circle" that converts an environmental burden to a life-saving purpose. ### OLA (Observatory in Latin American—Observatorio Latino Americano)

The broad objectives of OLA are to:

- Improve academic and public understanding by observing and studying the processes of political and economic change underway in Latin America.
- Foster a public dialogue between and within the United States and Latin America about the challenges of building social democracy in a globalized world, including creating opportunities for Latin American leaders to directly express their views to audiences in the United States.
- Collaborate with Latin American institutions to further these objectives within countries across the Hemisphere by linking and mobilizing ideas and institutions.

Council Hemispheric Affairs

Founded in 1975, the Council on Hemispheric Affairs (COHA), a nonprofit, tax-exempt independent research and information organization, was established to promote the common interests of the hemisphere, raise the visibility of regional affairs and increase the importance of the inter-American relationship, as well as encourage the formulation of rational and constructive U.S. policies towards Latin America. In 1982, COHA's board of trustees voted to expand its mandate to include monitoring Canadian/Latin American relations. Since its inception, COHA has been one of the most active and broadest-based U.S. private bodies dealing with the entire spectrum of political, economic and diplomatic issues, as well as responding to the economic and political challenges confronting the nations of this hemisphere. From its beginnings, COHA's board consisted of the leadership of some of this country's most important trade unions, professional organizations and religious groups, as well as distinguished civic and academic figures, who joined together to advance their common belief in support of representative government and pluralistic institutions throughout the hemisphere.

World Affairs Council of Pittsburgh

The World Affairs Council of Pittsburgh is an independent, non-partisan, non-profit organization dedicated to promoting a deeper understanding of key contemporary international issues throughout Western Pennsylvania. Established in 1931, the Council is committed to informing opinion leaders and decision-makers about developments around the world as they unfold, and to educating them about the relevance of such developments to the region. The Council also has a special focus on secondary schools throughout the region, and works to give students and teachers a more nuanced understanding of the global issues of our time. <http://www.worldaffairspittsburgh.memberlodge.org/>

EMPLOYMENT/INTERNSHIPS/FELLOWSHIPS

Associate/Full Professor and Director, Master's in Development Practice School of Geography and Development, University of Arizona

The School of Geography and Development (SGD) at the University of Arizona invites applications for an international search for the position of Director of the Master's in Development Practice. We seek a creative and visionary director who will lead the program into its next phase of becoming a prominent program in development practica. The position will begin August 2016.

The Master's in Development Practice (MDP) is an innovative and interdisciplinary professional program that brings together talented students and faculty in a vibrant community dedicated to reducing the impacts of global poverty and to enhancing well-being for the under-resourced and socially excluded. The Director of MDP will advance the Program's and the School's missions by attracting, mentoring, and training students and development practitioners in four cornerstone areas: public health, management, social sciences and natural sciences. The Director will teach in the program, manage the academic program, expand collaborative relationships on campus and in the broader community in support of MDP, recruit and mentor students, and conduct research and engagement with appropriate communities. Area of research specialization within the four cornerstone areas is open, an active and engaged research program is required.

The University of Arizona is a top-ranked, research-intensive, land-grant university that embraces a distinctive interdisciplinary culture in which the School of Geography and Development is a valued collaborator. The School has an exciting and diverse working and learning environment, with 30 regular faculty members, 30+ adjunct and affiliated faculty, over 200 undergraduate majors, and over 100 graduate and professional students. The culture of the School is collaborative and supportive of innovative research and training. Further information about MDP can be found at http://geography.arizona.edu/masters\_development\_practice and information about SGD at www.geography.arizona.edu.

The position of Director of the MDP program requires a PhD in a social science discipline, teaching experience, practical experience in development, and a record of research publication and extramural support for research and practice consistent with the rank of Associate or Full Professor. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Review of applications will begin on February 1, 2016. Please submit letter of application along with a CV, statement of teaching and a statement of engagement with development practice as well as the names of three references into the UACareer Track system. ### Richard E. Greenleaf Visiting Library Scholar—University of New Mexico

The Richard E. Greenleaf Visiting Library Scholar award provides individuals the opportunity to work as visiting researchers with the University of New Mexico's Latin American library collections, one of the largest and most complete Latin or Spanish American collections in the country. Invited to apply are scholars (U.S. and international), junior faculty (U.S.) and graduate students (U.S.) who specialize in Latin America and Iberia. The award honors Dr. Richard E. Greenleaf, distinguished scholar of colonial Latin American history, and his extensive career in teaching, research, and service.

Recipients of the Richard E. Greenleaf Visiting Library Scholar award will work to promote scholarly use of the Latin American and Iberian collections, focusing on objectives with specific relevance to the UNM Library collections. Scholars will have the opportunity to present their research to faculty and students during their visit to UNM and to submit a brief report. LAII will assist awardees in identifying and networking with UNM scholars in relevant fields.

The Latino Family Center (LFC) Volunteer Programs and Opportunities

The Latino Family Center provides Latino families in Allegheny County with the resources and support they need to raise healthy and happy children. As part of the Allegheny County Family Support Network, the LFC offers services and support to families that are in need of aid with child development, school readiness, and parent education. In order to better serve our families, we will need the help of volunteers to participate in a variety of programs and opportunities as described below:

Volunteer Tutoring Program:

The Volunteer Tutoring Program was launched during the beginning of the 2013-2014 school year and has proven to be a great success! Tutors are paired with a student in grades K-12 who needs help with homework, or an adult who is looking for ESL or GED help. Sessions take place in the home of the student/adult, or in a public space such as a library or coffee shop. Scheduling will depend on volunteer and student availability. Consistency and punctuality are crucial to this position as students will depend on tutor to help with daily school assignments and to ensure effective learning.

Kindergarten Readiness Program:

We are currently in the process of planning and organizing a Kindergarten Readiness Program to be held on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 10:30-12pm, while adult ESL Classes are in session. Children's ages usually range from 0-5. We would appreciate the help in planning the structure and consistent execution of this new program. If you love little kids, this is the opportunity for you!

Special Events:

We frequently have events at the center such as holiday celebrations and programs that allow local organizations to come and help or educate our families on a variety of topics. In these cases, we will need volunteers to help us plan, organize, set up, facilitate, and help clean after the event. This position will vary by event and need.

Family Advocacy:

There are also opportunities at the LFC for volunteers to help out with interpretation in English and Spanish. Duties may include: translating/completing forms, accompanying families and translating at doctor's appointments, etc.

Cooking:

We are a group of staff members and LFC family members alike who loves to bond over food. If you also love to cook and are looking to challenge and apply your skills outside of your own kitchen, we invite you to help us prepare snacks and meals before meetings and events throughout the year. Multiple times or just a one-time offer, we look forward to trying out your cooking!

Center Office Help:

Every once in a while, the Center needs help with office duties! Volunteers will be asked to come in a help clean, re-organize, file, or help with the packaging of monthly newsletters in to envelopes.
