

PittGlobal Analytics and Insight Dashboard

Frequently Asked Questions

How do I access the dashboard?

Accessing the dashboard is simple. Faculty and staff members can follow these step-by-step instructions and start exploring:

1. Log in to my.pitt.edu.
2. Type “PittGlobal Analytics” into the AskCathy search bar at the top of the screen.
3. Click on the “PittGlobal Analytics and Insight” button that shows up in the search results.

What can I use the dashboard for?

Quick access to summary facts about key aspects of Pitt’s global engagement, such as the countries of origin for international students, the destinations of study abroad students, courses offered by language departments, and agreements that the University has with organizations around the world.

Am I allowed to use the data in the dashboard for any marketing communications?

The dashboard is meant primarily as a starting point for exploring the University’s involvement around the world. Instead of citing the dashboard directly in marketing communications materials, we recommend using the University Fact Book or sending a message to globaldashboard@pitt.edu for help in identifying the most appropriate sources.

The information I was hoping to find isn’t here. Whom should I contact?

Your first step should be the Dashboard team at globaldashboard@pitt.edu. Another helpful contact for insight about how the University engages internationally is the Global Operations manager at globalsupport@pitt.edu.
