Disinformation and Diplomacy

EU, Russia, and the Battle for Facts

March 24

Russia's war against Ukraine raises new questions in international relations. How can the EU deal with Russian disinformation? What are the effects of shutting down RT or Sputnik? What responsibility do technology companies have in spreading hate and lies? What does Zelensky's social media activity teach us about political communication and leadership? These and other questions serve to reflect on the future of Europe in the era of de-globalization, where facts -not mere opinions- are contested.
