

16th Annual Policy Conference

DESIGNING EFFECTIVE CLIMATE POLICY IN THE EU AND THE U.S.

May 3-4, 2016

Twentieth Century Club
4201 Bigelow Blvd
Pittsburgh, PA 15213

Broad international treaties attempting to tackle climate change have had limited effects at best, leading a handful of countries and jurisdictions to experiment with alternative strategies to reduce greenhouse gas emissions. This conference will study (1) the effectiveness of these various strategies, (2) whether they are politically viable, and (3) whether they can be scaled up. Academics and practitioners will compare and contrast experiences in both Europe and the United States in the hopes of designing more effective climate policy on both sides of the Atlantic.

ORGANIZED BY:

Michaël Aklin,

Assistant Professor of Political Science, University of Pittsburgh

KEYNOTE ADDRESS:

Gernot Wagner

Senior Economist, Environmental Defense Fund; co-author of Climate Shock, which was short-listed by the Financial Times as a "book of the year."

FOR CONFERENCE PROGRAM, INFORMATION AND REGISTRATION:

www.ucis.pitt.edu/esc.

EUROPEAN STUDIES CENTER

UCIS
UNIVERSITY CENTER FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

POLITICAL SCIENCE