How do we provide cross-cultural opportunities for our students?

How can instructors and students be inspired to think globally?

How can we help faculty internationalize the courses they already offer?

Come on November 4th and let's talk!

Through grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) and the US Department of Education, the University Center for International Studies (UCIS) at the University of Pittsburgh has partnered with community colleges to help faculty internationalize curriculum.

A light breakfast and lunch will be provided. Please pre-register by October 24 at

The University of Pittsburgh's Center for Russian and East European Studies (REES) and the Community College of Beaver County (CCBC) would like to open an invitation to interested faculty and staff at any of the universities and colleges in our area to learn more about the process, including:

- Program and curriculum development
- Institutional partnerships
- Grant writing

CCBC faculty members will showcase internationally focused course modules that they developed through the NEH-funded "Bridging Cultures" partnership with Pitt.
